SUBJECT: PA judges have ruled that the taxpayers must fund elective abortions.

People for Life condemns the 4-3 Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court decision that forces the taxpayers to foot the bill for abortions of choice, also known as elective abortions.

In a blatantly undemocratic move, the Court summarily overruled a law enacted by the people of the Commonwealth in 1982 that prevented government funding of abortion killing in most cases. A state Supreme Court decision upheld the funding restriction for four decades.

The Court also announced that it had found a previously undiscovered right to “reproductive autonomy” (i.e., abortion killing) in the state constitution.

This decision further cheapens human life and will make Pennsylvania an even more dangerous place for children before birth.
